

Do Your Prefer Paper Or Plastic

A lot of people nowadays don't carry cash on them like they used to. They carry their cash on cards, such as credit cards, debit cards, or prepaid cards. Some people use cash as a bargaining chip for the things they want like cars, home, and many other things. When people put their money on these cards, their money mainly is getting thrown out the window due to all of the fees, their charges, and everything else they tack on your bill, which makes you have to pay more than what you were told in the first place and more than what you have spend on the cards.

When you have cash on you, what you pay out is what you pay out and no more than that. Cash talks and everything else walks. For example, if you want to buy a car and you have cash in hand to buy the car, you can get it at the price that the car is for or even less than what it is. If you pay for it on a credit card, it is going to cost you a lot more than it is worth and the interest will be high, which can take a long time to pay it off. Not only that but they will put interest to the cards because when you use it, the companies tack it on as well, so you are paying the interest on the car and on the card.

The use of the credit cards can get you in trouble when you use them because it is easy to use and spend. It can put you in debt so quick that it can be hard to pull yourself out. With a debit card, it will still cost you interest on the car and the other problem with it is it has a limit on how much you use a day and it won't let you go over it. When you want to buy a house, you can buy it flat down with cash and you can bargain with them. When people see cash they know you mean business and they will do business with you and get you to buy it.

Cash can buy anything and you know where it is all going and if you don't have enough for it, you can't buy it so you will not get in trouble with anybody. Many people would rather have cash on them than cards because it is easier to use with no risks. There are a few places that will only take cash because they want to stay that way and also because they like cash. With cash, there are no calls of credit cards companies hassling you about a payment or no bill that can rack up on you in which you might not be able to afford to pay for the bill.
